

REPUBLICAN BUDGET TO END MEDICARE

(Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in strong opposition to the Ryan Republican budget that will end Medicare as we know it.

Reminiscent of last year, the Republican budget provides tax breaks for the millionaires and billionaires while ending the Medicare guarantees for our seniors, sticking them with the bill for rising health care costs.

The proposals in the Republican budget lack balance and jeopardize the health and economic security of our Nation's seniors. The 300,000 Texas seniors, who have saved almost $200 million on prescription drug costs since the Affordable Care Act was signed into law, will be forced back into the prescription drug doughnut hole.

I urge my Republican colleagues to end this attack on our seniors, as they have already been through enough, and we have given the rich too much leeway while the middle class and the poor pay the bills.

REPUBLICAN BUDGET

(Mr. HIMES asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HIMES. Madam Speaker, as I reflect on where this country has been in the last 10 years, I see two wars fought at the cost of thousands of lives and $2 to $3 trillion; tax cuts during a time of war—something unprecedented in this country's history—and now we're seeing more of the same: a Republican budget that would increase spending on defense, despite the fact that we spend more than every other country combined on defense, and would provide tax cuts to the very wealthiest in this country. The Office of Management and Budget estimates that millionaires will see $150,000 in tax cuts with this budget.

So who pays? Anybody who relies on medical research for a cure or to stay healthy will pay. Our education will pay. Pell Grants and Head Start for poor children to get educated will be gutted. Medicare will pay. Medicaid will pay. In my district where highways and railways are critical, investment in those things will be gutted. We all pay if this budget becomes law. I urge—implore—my colleagues to reject the Republican budget.

ALL FOR ONE AND THE ONE GETS ALL

(Mr. YARMUTH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. YARMUTH. Madam Speaker, a recent analysis of American tax revenues revealed that in 2010, as our country was recovering from the Great Recession, 93 percent of new income went to the top 1 percent of earners. That's $288 billion more exclusively for the 1 percent. I am sure my friends across the aisle were outraged that 7 percent could go to waste on the other 99 percent of American families.

Their solution: the Republican 1 percent budget—a gift basket for millionaires and billionaires. Inside is a permanent extension of the Bush tax cuts, which have created an income gap in this country on par with Cameroon and Rwanda. But the Republicans' 1 percent budget doesn't stop there. It gives an additional tax break of $150,000 to people earning more than $1 million a year while dismantling Medicare, slashing education, transportation, and the social safety net to pay for it.

I urge my colleagues to oppose this “all for one and the one percent gets all” budget and to support a plan that reflects our Nation's values of fairness and shared responsibility.

COMMENDING PRESIDENT OBAMA'S COMMITMENT TO DOMESTIC OIL PRODUCTION

(Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Madam Speaker, rising gas prices are hitting families hard, adding to what is already a tough economic situation for our citizens across the Nation.

That is why I commend President Obama for his all-of-the-above energy strategy, which includes a strong commitment to domestic oil production. Oil and gas development has increased in every year of the Obama administration, and domestic oil production is now at an 8-year high. Furthermore, our foreign dependence on oil is at a 16-year low. Last year, we cut net oil and petroleum imports by 1 million barrels a day.

President Obama has also offered millions of acres of land for lease and has improved safety measures to prevent future spills. The President has also proposed opening up more undiscovered offshore oil and gas resources for development in the Gulf of Mexico.

I thank President Obama for his leadership in increasing oil production so that our Nation, our country, will depend less on imported foreign oil.

REJECT THE REPUBLICAN BUDGET

(Mr. CLEAVER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CLEAVER. You hear a lot about the Ryan budget. I've chosen not to call it the “Ryan budget”—it's just my personal thing—because it becomes personal. So, when I criticize it, it seems like I'm criticizing a person when I'm not. I'm criticizing the Republican Budget Committee from which it came, and I'm criticizing it because 62 percent of all the cuts in that budget will be aimed at low-income individuals and seniors. The Medicare program is going to be threatened, and the AARP sent out a notice to all of its members explaining what would happen to Medicare if it is voucherized.

We are the only Nation in the history of planet Earth to give tax cuts as we enter and then are in the middle of a war—2003, 2005—giving tax cuts in the middle of a war. Last year, the 22 largest hedge fund managers earned $22 billion, and they paid only 15 percent on the tax of the capital dividends. The people who are watching this pay 27 to 30 percent.

It's not right. We've got to reject this budget.

THE BUDGET AND MEDICARE

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Madam Speaker, as my constituents remind me frequently, seniors have paid into the Medicare system their whole working lives. Seniors have done so with the understanding that, if they work hard and play by the rules, this country will provide for their health care needs during retirement. That is why I am committed to working with my colleagues and the administration to ensure the survival of Medicare, and that is why I strongly oppose the Republican budget.

The Republican budget would end Medicare by transforming it into a voucher program, and it would slash over $1 trillion in benefits over the next decade. So, with far less money in hand, our seniors would become dependent on insurance companies to decide the fate of their health care—insurance companies that could price our seniors out of the market or cut benefits at will. Also, while the Republican budget takes from seniors to cut costs, it gives millionaires an average tax cut of at least—at least and I've seen larger numbers—$150,000 in 2014.

Our seniors deserve better. I look forward to a real bipartisan effort to preserve the promise of Medicare for future generations.

REPUBLICAN BUDGET ENDS MEDICARE

(Mr. LEWIS of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEWIS of Georgia. Madam Speaker, again this year, the Republican budget would end Medicare's guarantee to our seniors. The Republican budget takes aim at the very heart of our moral obligation to our seniors.

Medicare has been both a blessing and a lifeline for our seniors and the disabled. Our seniors have worked a
